SPIRADO... The best way to feed cable over long or complicated runs. Simply load the spring into the gun and "pump" it around the conduit system with minimal effort. The springs themselves have a much longer life span than the traditional nylon or steel draw tapes and the steel cable forming the inner core gives much greater strength and reduces the likelihood of kinking or stretching under pressure. The springs come in three different lengths, 10 metre, 20 metre, 30 metre and can also be joined using a barrel connector.

Using the original Pump Action Gun made things easy...
But now they can be even easier with the new...

SPEEDYWIRE...

Using the currently available SPIRADO springs SPEEDYWIRE is simple to use as an accessory on a battery operated drill.

The speed of the insertion is controlled using the gear setting on the drill and the spring can be inserted at a constant speed, without stopping, which helps to avoid snagging. Making use of the optional Flexible Lead Spring included in the SPEEDYWIRE kits is an additional aid.

Once the spring is fed around the system SPEEDYWIRE is easily removed to allow the cable to be pulled back in the usual manner.
